DAILY LEADER

MONDAY APRIL 10, 1805. Glory to God!

Let us rejoice and be exceeding glad The rebellion has received a final deathstroke. Lee has fallen. His proud army, broken and destroyed in battle, ne longer exists even in its remnants. In its despair it has given up the ghoet. Beaten, flying, disorganized, falling into pieces with every mile it moved, lost to hope, to glory and to sense of shame, harassed on fishk and rear and at last in front by the galloping horsemen of fiery Sheridan, and the tireless pursuit of the unwearied Grant, the once proud army of Lee had become a mere rabble and rout, and its commander, when he could not save it, surrendered it. In that surrender the rebellion committed suicide. Its ghost may still haunt us for a time, but its life is gone and its deeds are things of the past. Jeff. The Accident to Mr. Seward. Our dispatches have repeatedly noticed the illness of Secretary Seward, arising from the fracture of his arm. They have mentioned the fact that it was occasioned by his being threwn from his carriage, but ave given no details of the accident. The facts are as follows:

with his right hand, holding the reins with his left, the horses started. The driver held on, followed them, and endrayored to close the door. Mr. F. W. PROCLAMATION.

COLUMBUS, April 8. STATE OF ORIO, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, April 8. The God of battles has blessed our armies and the glorious cause of human freedom. Under His approving amiles patriotic and brave men in the field have achieved unparalleled triumphs; the robel capital has been conquered and given back to the Union, and the army that held it in robellions has been broken and scattered, the ion has been broken and scattered; the military power of the rebellion—the strong est obstacle to peace—has received a terrible shock, and our gallant armies are pursuing it to final extinction. For all this we owe praises and thanksgiving to Almighty God, recognition of the services and sacrifices of our nobla soldiers, and rejoicing over the triumph of right, the crushing of rebellion, and an early return to peace and prosperity in the land.

It is therefore recommended that Friday next, the 14th day of April, being the an-niversary of the fall of Fort Sumter, be niversary of the fall of Fort Sumter, be generally observed by the people of this State as a day of thanksgiving to God and a general rejoicing; that religious assemblages and observances mark the day, and the evening be given to bonfires, illuminations, thundering of artillery, public assemblages, speeches, and such other manifestations as may be suggested to appropriately mark the heroic deeds of our armies and the general joy of our people at the sariy restoration of the Constitution and good government.

A letter from Richmond, dated April 6, 0878: The new state of affairs in this city gives general satisfaction to residents, who show their gratitude by tendering every attention and giving all information to our soldiers, and on the soldiers' part they are kind and courteous, thus giving a contradiction to the false reports of the rebel press. The best of order prevails. After tation the streets are free from soldiers, excepting the patrel, or the shareing of the cepting the patrol, or the changing of the guards. No bar-rooms are yet allowed to be opened, and what whisky is found is conficuated and poured into the streets.

Hr. Beecher's Departure for Charles-

The New York Tribune says that on Wednesday evening a large meeting was held in the lecture-room of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, for a last greeting of Mr. Beecher before his departure for Charleston. Religious exercises were held, and in the sermon Mr. Beacher referred to the narrative contained in the three or four closing chapters of the Book of Judges where 25,000 out of 27,000 of the tribe of where 20,000 out of 27,000 of the tribe of Benjamin were destroyed. But the people wept and prayed that there should not be a tribe lacking in Israel. Not altogether unlike the feelings there expressed for that tribe, were our feelings to-ward the Foutb. The whole country had been our watchword; we had fought for the whole country, and we were respon-sible for the whole country. We should be careful not to fall into the easy sin of a be eareful not to fall into the easy sin of a desire jor vengeance under the color of desiring justice. From the moment the last musket was dropped and the last sword put up, he would not have one drop of blood spilled of any man who had taken part in the rebellion, though he would expatriate some of the leaders, that they might not work any more mischief. From the crumbling pulpit in Charleston harbor might not work any more mischiel. From the crumbling pulpit in Charleston harbor he should say to the South, now that the guilty and bloody war is passed, now that the cause of it is destroyed, there is nothing between us unless it is on your part; if you hate us we do not hate you; we are Christian citizens, and our purpose is just, the reconciliation which we and all Chris-tians at the North desire, and to take the Gold steady throughout the morning, lend in restoring peace to a country which can never be divided, feeling that in no unite with Canby.
